

DO IT DIFFERENTLY

There is no bride in the world that does not want a wedding that is unique. The problem however is that without experience it is very difficult to even define what makes a wedding unique.

Like it or not, every wedding has its own particular personality and style—the heart of which is determined by the bride and groom themselves.

Is this enough? As weddings are based on fairly rigid traditions and because it is difficult to change certain procedures in terms of order, most weddings are quite similar. Most brides attack the problem by trying to find a venue that no one has ever visited and try to use décor they consider to be different.

Both of these only scratch the surface. Even if the venue is brand new and the décor is unseen, there is every likelihood that although the wedding will look different, it will end up the same as all other weddings.

In other words, your wedding on a game farm may well end up being similar in many aspects to your wedding at a popular wedding venue in the city.

The really unique wedding always offers an element of surprise that is carefully integrated with the unique style, personality and passions of the couple.

To help you, we have given you a sampling of couples who got it right.

Do it

Differently

Every wedding is a fairytale, but what if your wedding was to embrace the enchantment and magic of The Faraway Tree—the world that captivated all of us as children until the real world took hold of our sensibilities. Laurence and Susannah whose romance is a fairytale in itself set about creating this fairytale on their wedding day.
