Luzelle loves animals, and in particular birds and wanted this passion to be shown in the theme and décor of her wedding. The wedding was also close to Easter and having the birds and feather theme, coupled with the Easter Eggs they gave as gifts, seemed appropriate.

Once Luzelle had made up her mind about her theme, she decided to incorporate black feathers into her wedding dress. She wanted to prove that incorporating black into a wedding dress need not be frowned upon, so armed with a picture of a similar gown she saw in a magazine, she approached New Romantics. Her dress was specifically designed for her and she then hired it from the designer. Oh, and by the way, the wedding cake was topped with black icing to match the theme.

Luzelle's parting words are that you need to follow your heart and do what you want for your wedding. Friends and family will obviously guide you, but it is your day and you must be happy. Trust your gut feel—if you know something will work for you and you really want it, go for it!
